The furious children

‘I’m so bored! It’s a sunny day, we should go out!’ Tom exclaimed. ‘I’ve heard about a place called Failure Country Park! Mary said ‘Then let’s go!’ said Tom.

‘How do we go to Failure Country Park?’ Tom asked. ‘I don’t know.’ ‘Maybe I can help!’ Suddenly, a hiker said, ‘I’ve been there before! First you take bus 116 to the final stop then, you walk 500 metres downhill and you’ll be there!’ The children thanked the hiker and set off to the nearest bus stop.

When they arrived, the queue was very long. Mary doesn’t like to wait so travelling by bus was no longer an option. Tom suggested to go there by taxi. Even though travelling by taxi is expensive, it is fast comfortable and convenient. They emptied their pockets and found 200 dollars. It was enough to take the taxi back and forth once.

But, something terrible happened, when they arrived, it started to rain cats and dogs. They were furious. Tom thought it was a waste of money and Mary said, ‘We struggled so much! Today, I learnt a lesson about watching the weather report when there are plans.’
